NEW QUESTION: 1

DRAG DROP

You have a Hyper-V host named Server1. A technician creates a virtual machine named VM1 on Server1 by using the New Virtual Machine Wizard.

You start VM1 and you discover that there is no option to start by using PXE.

You need to ensure that you can start VM1 by using PXE.

Which three actions should you perform in sequence? (To answer, move the appropriate three actions from the list of actions to the answer area and arrange them in the correct order.)

Answer:

Explanation:

Explanation:

Box 1: Shut down VM1.

Box 2: Modify the virtual switch settings of the legacy network adapter.

Box 3: Modify the BIOS settings of VM1.

Note:

Step 1: The VM need to be shutdown first.

Step 2:

1. You need to create a virtual switch. This is needed for the Virtual Machine to be able to communicate with the network. If you already have created a virtual machine for your network, you can skip this step. Start by right-clicking the Hyper-V host in Hyper-V Manager and selecting "Virtual Switch Manager".
2. Create a new Virtual Switch. Select "External", which is similar to "Bridged" if you're used to other virtualization software.

3. Give the new Virtual Switch a name.

4. By default, there is only a "Standard Network Adapter" installed on the Virtual Machine, but for PXE functionality you will need to add a "Legacy Network Adapter".

5. Go to the "Legacy Network Adapter" that you just added and specify that it should use the Virtual Switch that you just created.

Step 3: you should change the BIOS boot priority to make sure that the Virtual Machine always tries to boot first using the "Legacy Network Adapter". Just select the "Legacy Network Adapter" and move it to the top using the buttons.

Step 4: Start your Virtual Machine and now PXE boot should work.

NEW QUESTION: 2

Your network contains an Active Directory forest named contoso.com. The forest contains a single domain. All domain controllers run Windows Server 2012.

The domain contains two domain controllers. The domain controllers are configured as shown in the following table.

You discover that a support technician accidentally removed 100 users from an Active Directory group named Group1 an hour ago. You need to restore the membership of Group1.

What should you do?

- A. Perform an authoritative restore.
- B. Perform tombstone reanimation.
- C. Apply a virtual machine snapshot to VM1.
- D. Perform a non-authoritative restore.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Authoritative restore allows the administrator to recover a domain controller, restore it to a specific point in time, and mark objects in Active Directory as being authoritative with respect to their replication partners. For example, you might need to perform an authoritative restore if an administrator inadvertently deletes an organizational unit containing a large number of users. If you restore the server from tape, the normal replication process would not restore the inadvertently deleted organizational unit. Authoritative restore allows you to mark the organizational unit as authoritative and force the replication process to restore it to all of the other domain controllers in the domain.

Incorrect: Not C: A nonauthoritative restore returns the domain controller to its state at the time of backup and then allows normal replication to overwrite that state with any changes that occurred after the backup was taken. After you restore the system state, the domain controller queries its replication partners. The replication partners replicate any changes to the restored domain controller, ensuring that the domain controller has an accurate and updated copy of the Active Directory database.
