NEW QUESTION: 1

Which of the following attacks is used to obtain a user's authentication credentials?

- A. Teardrop attack
- B. Bonk attack
- C. Brute force attack
- D. Phishing attack

Answer: C

Explanation:

Brute force is an attack that is used to obtain a user's authentication credentials. In a brute force attack, an attacker uses software that tries a large number of the keys combinations in order to get a password. To prevent such attacks, users should create passwords more difficult to guess, e.g., using a minimum of six characters, alphanumeric combinations, and lower-upper case combinations, etc. Answer option D is incorrect. Phishing is a type of scam that entice a user to disclose personal information such as social security number, bank account details, or credit card number. An example of phishing attack is a raudulent e-mail that appears to come from a user's bank asking to change his online banking password. When the user clicks the link available on the e-mail, it directs him to a phishing site which replicates the original bank site. The phishing site lures the user to provide his personal information. Answer option C is incorrect. Bonk attack is a variant of the teardrop attack that affects mostly Windows computers by sending corrupt UDP packets to DNS port 53. It is a type of denial-of-service (DoS) attack. A bonk attack manipulates a fragment offset field in TCP/IP packets. This field tells a computer how to reconstruct a packet that was fragmented, because it is difficult to transmit big packets. A bonk attack causes the target computer to reassemble a packet that is too big to be reassembled and causes the target computer to crash. Answer option A is incorrect. In a teardrop attack, a series of data packets are sent to the target computer with overlapping offset field values. As a result, the target computer is unable to reassemble these packets and is forced to crash, hang, or reboot.

Your network contains an Active Directory domain.

You have a user account that is a member of the Domain Admins group.

You have 100 laptops that have a standard corporate image installed. The laptops are in workgroups and have random names.

A technician named Tech1 is assigned the task of joining the laptops to the domain. The computer accounts of each laptop must be in an organizational unit (OU) that is associated to the department of the user who will use the laptop. The laptop names must start with four characters indicating the department, followed by a four-digit number.

Tech1 is a member of the Domain Users group only. Tech1 has the administrator logon credentials for all the laptops.

You need Tech1 to join the laptops to the domain. The solution must ensure that the laptops are named correctly, and the computer accounts of the laptops are in the correct OUs.

Solution: You pre-create the computer account of each laptop in Active Directory Users and Computers.

You instruct Tech1 to sign in to each laptop, to rename each laptop, and then to join each laptop to the domain by using System in Control Panel.

Does this meet the goal?

A. No

B. Yes

Answer: A
