NEW QUESTION: 1

You are designing a fabricpath network that connects to a spine-and-leaf topology using Layer 2 IS-IS as the IGP. The solution must be able to detect changes in the network topology and calculate loop-free paths to other nodes in the network that are being used as top-of-rack switches, which three characteristics of this fabricpath design solution are true? (Choose two)

- A. The interfaces in FabricPath network run only the FabricPath Layer 2 IS-IS protocol with FTags disabled.
- B. FabricPath Layer 2 IS-IS uses the standard IS-IS functionality to populate up to 16 for a given destination switch.
- C. Each switch computes its shortest path to every other switch in the network using the SPF algorithm.
- D. The switch operating system uses multiple equal-cost parallel links that provide ECMP.

You plan to write a query for a new business report that will contain several nested queries.

You need to ensure that a nested query can call a table-valued function for each row in the main query.

Which query operator should you use in the nested query?

- A. OUTER JOIN
- B. CROSS APPLY
- C. INNER JOIN
- D. PIVOT

Answer: B

Explanation:

Explanation/Reference:

Explanation:

The APPLY operator allows you to invoke a table-valued function for each row returned by an outer table expression of a query. The table-valued function acts as the right input and the outer table expression acts as the left input. The right input is evaluated for each row from the left input and the rows produced are combined for the final output. The list of columns produced by the APPLY operator is the set of columns in the left input followed by the list of columns returned by the right input.

There are two forms of APPLY: CROSS APPLY and OUTER APPLY. CROSSAPPLY returns only rows from the outer table that produce a result set from the table-valued function. OUTER APPLY returns both rows that produce a result set, and rows that do not, with NULL values in the columns produced by the table-valued function.
