NEW QUESTION: 2

Which of the following factors affect a firm's cost of capital?

- A. Investment Policy
- B. Capital Structure Policy
- C. The level of interest rates
- D. All of these answers
- E. Tax rates
- F. Dividend Policy

Answer: D

Explanation:

Explanation/Reference:

Explanation:

Each of these factors may affect a firm's cost of capital. As interest rates rise, the cost of debt will also rise forcing firms to pay a higher rate of interest on debt capital (bonds). Tax rates also affect the cost of debt.

Furthermore, a lower capital gains tax rate relative to ordinary income tax rates will affect the cost of equity capital relative to the cost of debt capital. Capital structure policy will affect the weighted average cost of capital (WACC), as well as affect the riskiness of both equity and debt capital. A change in the level of capital risk will in turn also affect the WACC. Dividend policy including the level of dividends and stability of dividends will have a direct affect on the cost of equity capital. Finally, a firm's WACC is affected by its investment policy. The types of investments that a firm undertakes and the riskiness of those investments are reflected in the WACC.

NEW QUESTION: 3

FAR (False-Acceptance Rate) is the probability of accepting a null hypothesis when it is false.

- A. The probability of rejecting a null hypothesis when it is true.
- B. The probability of accepting a null hypothesis when it is true.
- C. The probability of rejecting a null hypothesis when it is false.
- D. The probability of accepting a null hypothesis when it is false.

Answer: D

Explanation:

Hand Geometry:

Hand Geometry is a method of fingerprint identification. It involves measuring the length and width of the fingers and palm to create a unique profile for each individual. This method is used in forensic science to identify suspects in criminal cases. The FAR (False-Acceptance Rate) is the probability of accepting a null hypothesis when it is false. In the context of hand geometry, the null hypothesis is that two fingerprints belong to the same individual. The FAR is the probability of accepting this hypothesis when it is actually false, meaning that two fingerprints from different individuals are incorrectly identified as belonging to the same person.
